
Contents

Preface ■ xi

SECTION I
General Principles of Curriculum Development for Gifted Students ■ 1

Introduction to Section I: Qualitative Differences ■ 2

Chapter 1
Curriculum, Gifted Learners, and Change ■ 7

Theories of Intelligence ■ 7
Curriculum Implications of Current Theories of Intelligence ■ 11
Qualitatively Different Curricula ■ 15
Three Types of Qualitative Change ■ 18
Integrated Curriculum ■ 20
Descriptions of Qualitative Differences ■ 21
Procedures for Presenting Learning Opportunities ■ 23
A Comprehensive Approach to Curriculum ■ 24

Chapter 2
Learning Environment ■ 29

Learner Centered ⟷ Teacher Centered ■ 31
Independence ⟷ Dependence ■ 37
Open ⟷ Closed ■ 42
Acceptance ⟷ Judgment ■ 44
Complexity ⟷ Simplicity ■ 53
Varied Groupings ⟷ Similar Groupings ■ 56
Flexibility ⟷ Rigidity ■ 59
High Mobility ⟷ Low Mobility ■ 63
Summary ■ 65

© copyrighted material by PRO-ED, Inc.

Chapter 3
Content ■ 67

Abstractness ■ 67
Complexity ■ 75
Variety ■ 78
Organization for Learning Value ■ 83
The Study of People ■ 89
The Study of Methods ■ 92
Summary ■ 95

Chapter 4
Process ■ 97

Inductive Teaching and Learning Methods ■ 97
Process Modifications ■ 103
Higher Levels of Thinking ■ 103
Open-Endedness ■ 110
The Importance of Discovery ■ 116
Evidence of Reasoning ■ 124
Freedom of Choice ■ 127
Group Interaction ■ 133
Pacing ■ 137
Variety ■ 140
Summary ■ 141

Chapter 5
Product ■ 143

Addressed to Real Problems ■ 145
Elements of Problem Finding ■ 151
Directing Products Toward Real Audiences ■ 157
Elements of Communication ■ 158
Evaluation ■ 161
Transformation ■ 170
Variety and Self-Selected Format ■ 174
Summary ■ 178

SECTION II
Curriculum Development ■ 179

Introduction to Section II: The Teaching–Learning Models ■ 180

© copyrighted material by PRO-ED, Inc.

Teaching–Learning Models ■ 182
Combining the Models ■ 196

Chapter 6
A Step-by-Step Curriculum Development Plan ■ 199

Involvement of Key Individuals ■ 199
Developing a Definition ■ 202
Needs Assessment ■ 203
Developing a Philosophy ■ 206
Developing Program Goals ■ 211
Choosing Teaching–Learning Models ■ 213
Including State and/or National Standards ■ 217
Developing Objectives and Strategies ■ 226
Developing Evaluation Procedures ■ 235
Assessing Student Growth ■ 235
Assessing Program Effectiveness ■ 238
Gaining Acceptance for the Curriculum ■ 243
Developing Curriculum for an Individual or a Group ■ 244
Summary ■ 248

Appendix 6.A ■ 251

Chapter 7
Developing Scope and Sequence in Curriculum for Gifted Students ■ 265

Necessary Elements of a Scope and Sequence ■ 267
Key Individuals and Their Roles and Tasks ■ 268
Curriculum Goals for Scope and Sequence ■ 268
Teaching–Learning Models and Their Appropriateness in Meeting Curriculum Goals ■ 270
Scope and Sequence for a School District ■ 270
Scope and Sequence for a Network of Schools ■ 271
Specific Objectives for Goals ■ 272
Using The Multiple Intelligences ■ 286
The "Match" Between the Regular and the Differentiated Curricula ■ 305
Needs Assessment and Evaluation in Areas Addressed by Program Goals and Objectives ■ 310

© copyrighted material by PRO-ED, Inc.

Developing Sample Units and Lesson Plans ■ 311
Implementation ■ 311
Summary ■ 312

SECTION III
International Perspectives on Education for Gifted Students ■ 313

Introduction to Section III ■ 314

Chapter 8
International Perspectives on Education for Gifted Students ■ 317

Australia Leonie Kronborg, Liz Kelly, and Margaret Plunkett ■ 317
Brazil Eunice M. L. Soriano de Alencar and Denise de Souza Fleith ■ 328
Canada Olivia Hua and Bruce M. Shore ■ 335
England Belle Wallace and Ian Warwick ■ 344
France Maud Besancon ■ 351
Germany Klaus K. Urban ■ 359
Saudi Arabia Omar M. Al-Muammar ■ 369
Serbia Jasmina Šefer and Sanja Tadić-Janevski ■ 380
South Africa Jacobus Gideon Maree and Carol Noêla Van der Westhuizen ■ 392
South Korea Son-Mi Jo ■ 404
Taipei Ching-Chen Kuang ■ 411
Thailand Usanee Anuruthwong ■ 420
Turkey Ugur Sak ■ 432
Chapter Summary ■ 441

References ■ 443

Index ■ 471

© copyrighted material by PRO-ED, Inc.